RAY ARCHULETA

Ray is a conservation agronomist with the NRCS in Greensboro, NC. He teaches soil health and the principles of agroecology throughout the country. He has 25 years of experience working with NRCS in New Mexico, Missouri, Oregon and North Carolina. He is also a Certified Professional Soil Scientist with Soil Science Society of America. His infectious enthusiasm for soil health has earned him the nickname, "Ray, the Soils Guy". He has a B.S in Agricultural Biology.

BARRY FISHER

Barry serves as the Central Region Leader for the National Soil Health Division of NRCS. He has 34 years of experience with USDA where he provides leadership and technical exchange for soil health management strategies, training and assistance to employees, farmers and partners throughout the Corn Belt and Northern Plains. He assists with state and regional initiatives which advances the technology of quality no-till, cover crops, adaptive nutrient and pest management, and crop rotations with precision technology. Barry and his wife operate a cash grain and livestock farm in West Central Indiana. He has a B.S. in Agriculture from Western Kentucky University.
